

More Land To Be Cultivated Here Next Year

Farm Operations Tending To Be on Large Scale In All Regions

Vegetable farming operations in the Canal Point district will be on a large scale next season than ever before.

Whatever the production may turn out to be, the acreage under cultivation will be larger and the processes will be on a large-scale basis in the future. To reduce costs of production and make money even if prices are low.

The methods that are being adopted do not indicate that in greater quantity but they do indicate that as the probable output. This is because the land is to be brought into cultivation as well as large tracts already in use are being provided with dikes and ditches to protect against flooding, and with better drainage facilities the land probably will be in production with less interruption.

When the area of these operations is referred to as the Canal Point district, it includes Palm Beach, and other areas along the highway. The 1937 season was a good one in all the areas of the Canal Point; most of the growers made money, particularly the big operators. The small ones are being used to take in new land and improve the old land.

While the acreage is being increased there are changes in equipment and farm methods also, implements of greater power being used to get quicker results. This aspect is even more evident than the increase in the acreage.

One of the recent buyers from Mr. Hamrick is the purchase of a machine that will be used to cut and grade gasoline and distillate.

T. M. Deckman and Fred Hickerson have bought 200 acres of land in the Chacabey Bay district through R. E. Hamrick, who has bought and cleared the land and will make further improvements. It is now ready for planting in the fall.

They will retain the half section (32 acres) at Sand Cut siding which they lease from the Model Land Company. A new lease for three years more having been made, the drainage excavating machine has been purchased and is being used to throw up a dike on the 32-acre tract. The half section will be ditched and a large pump will be put in, thus providing against flooding.

The purchase of the Chacabey Bay land is for additional planting next season, as Deckman and Hickerson will farm land in sections 4 and 35 south of Palm Beach as well as the Model Land Company land which they farmed last season.

Charlie Moran of Pahokee is having 40 acres of land eight miles from Palm Beach, Collier county, diked and ditched in preparation for planting in a corn field in the fall. Hand labor is being used on the project, but if eight or ten men. He has an option on as much land as he wants and if he can experiment with the fall crop work out he may use a total of 200 acres in the spring. The land is within two miles of a railroad siding.

W. C. Neaves, who farmed in the Sand Cut district last season, has an office in O. H. Tucker's Turf Ranch building in Canal Point. This implies that he has definite plans for next season but he is not ready to disclose his program.

P. M. Cate, a large operator in the Chacabey-Bay district, left this week on a vacation trip and will not outline his program for next season until his return. The Shore Beach Hotel, which he owns, has farmed the same land next season as last, J. P. Stafford, district secretary-treasurer, says.

There are rumors of a plan by the company which are premature, the outcome of some negotiations being due for the latter part of the month.

AFTER YEARS CANAL BANK CLEAN AGAIN

Five or six years ago—or along about then, when "Tobe" Hamrick was living in Canal Point and his wife was a member of the Woman's Club, he had a crew of his field workers clean up the canal bank and he saw to it that the area was taken care of.

Then he moved away and the dredging company came in and mended up the canal bank, the State Equipment Company of Jacksonville breaking down trees and doing other injury.

This week O. D. Taylor, sponsor of the cleaning up of the same area that "Tobe" used to look after, Mr. Taylor's place of business is across the canal and he got tired of looking at the weeds on the other side. The negro man he employed happened to be one of the men who cleaned up the canal bank for Mr. Hamrick, all those years ago.

Land Owned to Sale By End of Law Suit

Means More Farming On Lake Front and Conners Highway

Many tracts of land fronting on the Conners highway on Lake Okechobee are now for sale and available for improvement, in place of the former condition of uncertainty. This is because of a law suit from Canal Point; most of the growers made money, particularly the big operators. The small ones are being used to take in new land and improve the old land.

The new state of affairs was brought about by the settlement of a law suit between the Conners estate, a northern man named C. M. Highsmith having been used to get quicker results. This aspect is even more evident than the increase in the acreage.

Make It Known State Summer Weather Is Fine

Provide Method By Which All Can Aid In Getting More Tourists

Development of more summer tourist business for the Everglades and all Florida was begun this week by the Florida Power and Light Company when it launched a unique campaign. Through the plan of the company, local citizens will have an opportunity to help bring visitors to the state from outside Florida.

"Summergrams," virtually a cross in appearance between a post card and a telegram, Mr. Lapp explained, are being sent to the local offices of the power and light company and are available to all citizens. They are the summergrams carry on their face photographic reproductions of a number of typical Florida scenes, selected because of their appeal to vacationists and other potential visitors to this summer.

Larger than the usual post card in size, they were designed to attract as much attention as possible. The law is that they are to be sent to the local offices of the power and light company and are available to all citizens. They are the summergrams carry on their face photographic reproductions of a number of typical Florida scenes, selected because of their appeal to vacationists and other potential visitors to this summer.

What do we mean by "employment" that is not excepted under the law? It is a job that can be done in the summer months. It is a job that can be done in the summer months. It is a job that can be done in the summer months.

Generally speaking, we mean work in factories, shops, mines, hotels, building trades, hotels, telephone stations, in short, any kind of business or industry, except farm labor, domestic service, government work, seasonal work, and other accepted services. For instance, Bill Jones, a middle-aged man, is employed in a steel mill. He works a job that can be done in the summer months. It is a job that can be done in the summer months.

Any's sister, Lily, cooks for a private family in a home. She works in a laundry, she works in employment that is covered by the law.

Truth About Old Age Benefits Given By Social Security Board

More than 26,000,000 workers in the United States now have Social Security account numbers. Any one of them could see his own name on the Social Security record sheets, if he could visit the building in Baltimore, which houses the Record Division of the Social Security Board. In a certain light, he would find a duplicate of his Social Security account card.

There are rows and rows of filing cabinets which hold these account numbers, employment, etc., of one million workers. In addition there are larger sheets which also contain the name, address, etc., of every eligible worker, with plan of social security. ## Blocs Deadlock And Result Is Sugar In A Jam

To Divide Production Be- tween Florida, Other States and Islands

Washington, June 6.—Congressional sugar legislation advocates predicted today a deadlock on new control proposals could be broken if divergent interests agree on what share of the American market each should supply.

A proposal for a permanent control act, introduced three months ago, is stalemated in the house agriculture committee because of a dispute between the capital hill sugar bloc and the administration to interest of other countries, principally Hawaii, Puerto Rico, the Philippines and Cuba.

Chairman Jones (D-Tex.) of the house agriculture committee, said he had no immediate plans for compromise. For instance, the bill could be passed this session if it could come soon.

A DIFFICULT JOB
"No other agency would want to undertake the job that the State Road Department has taken on with its present income. Some years back when the item of maintenance was comparatively small, the Department received all the gas tax and all the license tax. Now, with nearly four thousand miles of State highways to maintain, along with hundreds of bridges and an ever-increasing debt, the Department gets but a small part of the gas tax and a seven-cent State gas tax and not part of the license tax." So says a Florida magazine in a well-considered article, adding:

"These this Department builds its main highways through cities and towns and to top off the great service it renders to the people of Florida, it collects tolls and otherwise carries over 1300 of the State's convicts even though they cannot always be profitably employed in clearing the right-of-ways or doing such maintenance work as they can handle. At every session of the Legislature efforts are made by various groups to obtain more than the remaining four cents of the gas tax for various purposes than road building. Cities want a part of it to use for street paving, the State suggests a part of it be given to the public schools in addition to the license tag fees they now receive. The counties of the State now receive a small part of the gas tax that was originally intended for use in retiring old bonds. In the past, many counties never had such bonds and others have paid them off, so the gas tax income is used for county administration in numerous instances."

"An long as the State Road Department does not build and maintain the so-called county roads it seems fair that the counties should have a reasonable portion of the tax to use for this purpose, but we are inclined to believe that when the State Road Department builds its main highways through the cities and generally adds to the cost of expensive bridges within their limits, it has done its part."

"Whether the public is ready to accept this statement as a fact or not, the time is coming, approaching when more funds than now available will be necessary to keep our State highway system in a condition to meet the needs of a constantly increasing traffic. As a matter of fact we must have wider two-lane highways and divided four-lane highways, and where the traffic warrants. We have the problem of an immense resort traffic to the coast during the year during which our State almost doubles its population. For half of this year it is constantly on the move. No other State in the Union has a similar situation to meet for such a long period. Year except California and now the Pacific State spends an enormous sum of money on its highways and bridges within a year. Its winter visitors fall far short in numbers of equaling its population. Therefore, Florida is in a unique situation to deal with in regard to its main highways and all citizens should be quick to take the almost insurmountable difficulties of the State Road Department to its efforts to provide the highways actually needed with a limited budget."

SPILLING THE BEANS
By Howard Sharp
If the question were to be asked, "Is Pabst beer sold in Belle Glade, Florida?" the answer in that form would be startling, yet it is the same thing as asking "Is the small town domed?" for Pabst and Belle Glade are small towns, and in that form the question is being asked by the United States. It has to do with that very practical question which states graduates of the high schools in the face, "Where'm I gonna get a job?" It is harder for the high school graduate to get in small town the kind of a job he can get in a large city.

Intelligent educators are not satisfied to turn the graduates onto the street—they have enough conscience to be concerned with what becomes of the product of their efforts. The really intelligent principals of high schools are wondering if the "education" they give, which is a waste of time and money, is the small town domed? and the question, "Where'm the graduate get a job?" Not much help is given by the ministers and politicians who give the benediction and commencement addresses if they do no more than pass pretty compliments and give benedictions.

Walter W. Ludman, dean of a normal school at Springfield, Illinois, in a letter printed in The Rotarian Magazine, writes he asks, "Is the Small Town Domed?" and he connects these practical questions of the hour with the question, "Where'm the graduate get a job?"

"Feeding the unemployed today does not prevent hunger tomorrow," Wilson pointed out. "A plea for strict Federal law requiring all aliens to take out naturalization papers was made by Robert Beall, West Palm Beach attorney, in an address to the Junior Chamber of Commerce of that city."

DR. SPOONER HONORED

A group of Pabst beer friends and relatives were invited to attend the party and barbecue at Immokalees Sunday, observing the birthday anniversary of Dr. J. J. Spooner, who for many years was a practicing physician here.

Those attending the affair were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bush and family, Mr. and Mrs. Spooner and family, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Spooner and family, Mr. and Mrs. Butler Spooner and family, Mrs. J. C. Tabb, John Covart, George Goldman, Colquitt Davis, and a group of friends. Dr. Spooner, who for many years was a practicing physician here, was honored by the group.

LOAD SCRAP IRON
"Trucks carrying scrap iron are seen throughout the Everglades section of the county. A British freighter is loading 3,500 tons of scrap for shipment from West Palm Beach to Japan."

CONTROL OF "SEEDERS"
IN CABBAGE CHOPS
Detroit, June 9.—Investigation of many inquiries on the production of "seeders" in crops of cabbage in southern trucking sections has led to the conclusion that "seeders" can be largely avoided by controlling the size of young cabbage plants at the time they are set in the field.

"The production of 'seeders' is the result of weather conditions abnormal for head production but normal for seed production. Producers of cabbage seed know that a rest period, brought about by a month or two of cold weather, is necessary to induce a plant to produce a seed stalk. They time their planting so that heads will be produced before the onset of cold weather. The larger the young cabbage plants are at the beginning of cold weather, the more apt they are to become seeders when the weather warms up to cause resumption of growth."

Growers of market cabbage must, therefore, time planting so that plants will not be too far developed when the seasonal cold period arrives. Careful control of the plants in the field, both when set in the field and at the start of cold weather, will control bolting to a large extent.

Wilcox Wants To Run For Senate
But Fears His Opposition To Roosevelt Will Beat Him
Congressman J. Mark Wilcox has written a Florida newspaper that he would like to be a candidate for the United States Senate. He said he would like to be a candidate for the United States Senate. He said he would like to be a candidate for the United States Senate.

Washington, D. C., June 7.—Although pointing out that "we must be careful to avoid unnecessary expenditures," the really intelligent Congressman J. Mark Wilcox today advocated "regulation of hours and wages so as to make room for legitimate industry for the increasing army of men who have been thrown out of employment by the development of the machine age."

Wilcox pointed out that while our relief work relief programs are necessary for the purpose of temporarily preventing hunger and suffering, they have provided no permanent solution of the problem.

"Feeding the unemployed today does not prevent hunger tomorrow," Wilson pointed out. "A plea for strict Federal law requiring all aliens to take out naturalization papers was made by Robert Beall, West Palm Beach attorney, in an address to the Junior Chamber of Commerce of that city."

CONTROL OF "SEEDERS"
IN CABBAGE CHOPS
Detroit, June 9.—Investigation of many inquiries on the production of "seeders" in crops of cabbage in southern trucking sections has led to the conclusion that "seeders" can be largely avoided by controlling the size of young cabbage plants at the time they are set in the field.

"The production of 'seeders' is the result of weather conditions abnormal for head production but normal for seed production. Producers of cabbage seed know that a rest period, brought about by a month or two of cold weather, is necessary to induce a plant to produce a seed stalk. They time their planting so that heads will be produced before the onset of cold weather. The larger the young cabbage plants are at the beginning of cold weather, the more apt they are to become seeders when the weather warms up to cause resumption of growth."

Growers of market cabbage must, therefore, time planting so that plants will not be too far developed when the seasonal cold period arrives. Careful control of the plants in the field, both when set in the field and at the start of cold weather, will control bolting to a large extent.

the second lot on October 28.
A cold period of five or six weeks was experienced in late December and through January, temporarily stopping plant development. In the following spring, 55 percent of the plants from the first lot—those planted earlier and allowed to grow larger before transplanting—went to seed. Less than five percent of the second lot of younger, smaller plants became seeders. Yet they were all subjected to the same cold period. The experiment tends to tend to substantiate the theory that cabbage planting should be so controlled that comparatively large plants will not be subjected to a long period of cold weather capable of inducing a rest period. There is no indication that early seeding is characteristic of any certain climate. Rather, it is due to local conditions.

SOUTH BAY

South Bay, June 7.—The topic for discussion at the Women's Home Demonstration Club Thursday in the Health Center was "Hobbies." Miss Irene Dawson gave a talk on the subject mentioning some of the hobbies of great men and each member present responded to roll call by telling her hobby.

Mrs. W. H. Rawle presided over the business session and called in the record books, appointing Miss Dawson, Mrs. C. E. Forbes and Mrs. Maude Hartline record book committee to compile the club record. Mrs. Rawle announced that the July session would be recreational. Mrs. H. C. Willis gave the delegates report on the activities at the recent Rally day in West Gate where several local members took prizes in the clothing revue. She also reported the election of Mrs. F. W. Mutchler as official delegate to the state institute in Tallahassee and that South Bay was first for their original stunt at the rally.

The large part of the program had to do with H club work. The six girls who won trips to short course were present in their new Palm Beach county uniforms and sang three of the H club songs. They also put on a one-act play, "Wise Marketing," all six taking part. Betty Rawle gave a demonstration on the points to be considered in judging a jar of canned product.

Mrs. Gladden J. Barstow, president of the county council, in the name of the South Bay Home Demonstration Club then presented to each of the short course girls, Elsie Mae Willis, June Goodrich, Marguerite Barnes, Edith Ivy, Jessie McLeod and Betty Rawle a portfolio on which Florida Mutchler had painted a typical Florida landscape and the monogram of each recipient.

Miss Louise Rawle presented each of her fellow club members with a sachet, and then presided over the punch bowl.

Others attending were Mrs. Edith V. Barstow, home agent; Mrs. E. E. Forbes, Mrs. Frank Green, Mrs. J. W. Rashley, Mrs. P. E. Goodrich, Lucille Barnes, Evelyn Corbett, Mary Elizabeth and Jack Crocker.

Florida's total area is 58,000 square miles, total land area 44,801 square miles and total water area, 3,805 square miles, says the State Chamber of Commerce.

Community Gossip

"Social customs change. Many years ago it was the custom in some localities to distribute black-bordered invitations to funerals, but it is never done now. Until a few years ago it was the custom to print 'resolutions of respect' and cards of thanks—that isn't done any more. The new form, better, is for the lodge or church to send the resolutions of respect to the bereaved family by mail or deliver through a committee, and the family sends letters through of printing in the newspaper. Funerals are private matters, not things to be advertised like a closing-out sale.

A party of Everglades people went over to the east coast on a fishing trip and made camp. During the night one of them got up and said, 'I'm going home—these sandflies are too much for me; rather than stand here I'm going home and I won't complain if a gnat gets in my mouth even if the gnat has been in my dog's ear.'

What we call the "rubber tree" is of the same general family as the fig—most everybody has noticed that rubber trees bear small figs. This observation led some one to ask, "Why don't somebody do some experimenting and try to grow real figs from these trees?" Jack Pope of Canal Point made answer. "It has been tried; I don't remember just who did it," but Frank O'Connell would know." So Frank was looked up and asked, "It was Old Man Brownlee who did it," Frank said. He went on to explain that it was back when the late Captain Hyman F. Hammond owned land around the Canal Point fort; this man Brownlee grafted onto a rubber tree and see if real figs could be grown and the operation was a success, for a shoot came out and was growing finely. And then what happened? "A goat eat it off." For a fact, that's what happened. It ended that experiment. This is the same Brownlee that was a deputy sheriff for a while. He was in that shooting scrape on the east coast.

Then there was another promising experiment. It was back when hand-head rust was bad, pretty near ruining the tomato industry around Homestead and getting into to beans up here. Mr. Sheffield of the sugar cane testing station noticed that wild tomatoes were free from all diseases. He got some seed of the yellow Ponderosa tomato, and grew them and crossed them with the wild tomato and the successive growth of the new variety were producing tomatoes that kept getting bigger and bigger each generation. Then the 1929 hurricane came along and spoiled it all and no one ever took up the experiment again.

FOR SCHOOL TRUSTEE

Lake Harbor, June 7.—Property owners here and at South Bay have requested the board of public instruction of Palm Beach county to place the name of Joe Lee Woods on the ballot for trustee of the Everglades school district No. 4 in the election of June 15.

Mr. Woods is a prominent merchant and farmer at Lake Harbor, coming here a number of years ago from Lake City, where he still has extensive farming interests, and is a personal friend of Governor Fred P. Connelley. He has shown his interest in the Everglades schools in a very material way, having donated one acre of the two acre school grounds surrounding the Lake Harbor Primary School. Mr. Woods and Arthur Wells, in order to build the school and relieve the crowded conditions at the South Bay Consolidated School, underwrote the cost of the building.
